Fever!

THERE IS NO BETTER TIME
THEN NOW, TO LET THE LEAVES OF MEDIOCRITY
FALL FROM YOUR TREE OF LIFE.
AUTUMN IS A GENTLE REMINDER THAT CHANGES CAN BE BEAUTIFUL!

PRACTICE KINDNESS EVERY DAY....

That is our DUTY to ourselves & to others. Cold/Flu/Covid/Germy season is upon us. Everyone has reasons to be out & about, sick or not. Please be respectful no matter your situation. It's our place to watch out for ourselves, but also respect others!

- Stay informed - know what illnesses are circulating
- Eat vitamin rich foods
- Stay hydrated
- Get enough sleep
- Get vaccinated
- Practice good hygiene
- Clean & disinfect

What's Around

ATTN: Publication deadline is FRI, 2 pm for all ads/info to be submitted to be published in the following Wed print - no exceptions.

When responding to an ad - be mindful of the time you call/text - not everyone has the same schedule and when you call/text late at night, it is troublesome. Some people must keep their phones on during their sleep time for emergency contact purposes.....please be respectful. Thank you, Capri

Submarine Vets & Families: All of you are invited to our annual picnic. Quartz Park, 20th Street & Quartz, Redmond, OR 97756, Sat, Sept 19 at 11:00 hours. We will have a grill, so bring enough for yourselves and 2 others. Bringing a folding table and chairs is a good idea as there are only 3 built in tables with attached benches there. It is a covered pavilion in case of rain, again! For further information and directions, if needed, please get in touch with one of us. We hope to see you there. Bring a friend, too. Commanding Officer, Rick Neault 541-480-1903; Executive Officer, Thom Keaney 917-716-0137; Financial Officer, Lonnie Powers 541-419-3545; Master Chief Yeoman, Fran Davis 541-527-5484. (0916) except for Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's and always closed 2 weeks at the end of every year.

Beautiful antique cookstove: 1905 Round Oak Chief with extra stovetop utensils. $859. Mr Anderson: 503-936-4629. (0923)

No free pet ads. Consult the humane society before re-homing your pet.

Your Round-Up is open ALL Holidays

I'd LOVE to be out galavanting in a hippy van (but I'll settle for my amazingly cool Jeep).....but I choose to keep a consistent and easy to remember schedule for YOU (see box to left).

Deadline is EVERY Friday, 2 pm - NO EXCEPTIONS.

If something comes up and I need to be closed, I try to give adequate notice.....sometimes emergencies, last-minute fishing trips with the hubs and/or the monthly adventure trips we take do happen quickly.

Dropbox, email, voicemail & website are ALWAYS available!

Thank you - Capri

WARREN BUFFERS PATHWAYS CENTRAL OREGON - PRINEVILLE

PATHWAYS

The Lunch I Almost Missed

Today I did something I've driven past hundreds of times: I went inside the Prineville Senior Center for lunch. For $6, you get a pretty darn good meal. The room was packed. Then, it struck me. People were talking. Not staring at phones. Talking.

Every table had a conversation going, and at mine sat a couple who were both 97. The gentleman, I was warned, might talk my ear off. He did. I was glad. He told me about putting 250,000 miles on their RV and about excursions on their 40-foot boat in the Pacific. He wasn't just telling stories. He was vividly describing pathways. Places they'd been. Routes they'd learned. Experiences they'd collected.

I found something I hadn't expected. A pretty good lunch. A couple of 97-year-olds with a lifetime of stories. And, in a small way, my own little PATHWAY moment. You know, the kind where you sit down somewhere simply because you're hungry and somehow end up with stories and an experience to remember.

Maybe that's the thing about pathways. Sometimes you don't know you're on one until you look back and realize where it took you.

When You Gotta Go.....

It was supposed to be the perfect antidote for a months-long crescendo of frazzled-parent burnout. It was supposed to be a long, relaxing road trip, alone with my husband, Mark. It was not supposed to be the Olympic trials for bladder control.

I had anticipated this get-away excursion with all the desperation of a working mother on the brink. The morning of the departure, I brewed a pot of coffee and mentally rehearsed our trip. The children were safe at my sisters. There would be no negotiations with our three-year-old son over what constituted "finishing" a bologna sandwich; no arguments with our nine-year-old daughter over whether bangs as big as tidal waves were appropriate for third-grade girls.

Today, I would be an adult. I poured another cup of coffee, and my fantasy unfolded like a Lexus commercial. I was cruising along a tree-shrouded sun-lit road with the man of my dreams, savoring leather upholstery, intimate conversation and a deliciously grown-up recording by the London Symphony Orchestra. All our mundane problems were swept away by the bubbles of our sparkling mineral water and waves of surround-sound Mozart.

Never mind that we were really just an average husband and wife, deserting our comfortable bed before dawn to slip into Wal*Mart sweats and zoom off across the state in a used minivan.

As we loaded the van, I took a deep breath and commented on the fresh, cold tingle of the pre-dawn air. Mark hummed a tune and happily commented that we could get 25 miles to the gallon if we'd set the cruise on 65 and keep the van moving.

I should have seen disaster coming.

The first 30 minutes of the trip we almost managed to remember what adults talk about. Then my early morning coffee caught up with me. "Let's stop here," I said, pointing to a small, roadside gas station.

"Already?" Mark checked his watch and raised one eyebrow, but patiently pulled over.

"I won't be long," I promised. "I ran in for a quick potty break and bought a fresh cup of coffee for each of us. We headed back onto the open road....for all of 30 more minutes.

"But we just stopped," Mark protested, as he parked the van at a truck stop. I could see the record-keeping whiz I married, mentally calculating lost gas mileage.

Two more truck stops and one convenience store later, my nervous bladder was proving a serious antidote to fantasy. The intimate conversation I'd imagined developed into frustrated silence after a heated exchange about "you women and your weak bladders!" and "you men and your stupid gas mileage!" I searched for a classical station on the radio; I found nothing but country and western.

When nature called again, I couldn't bear to tell Mark. Requesting yet another pit stop on this fascinating tour of Oregon's restrooms might well result in my hitchhiking the remaining miles to our destination.

I decided I'd wait. He'd had been drinking his share of coffee. Surely he'd have to stop soon. I vowed to outlast him.

One by one, the miles slipped past my window. One by one, opportunities for relief slipped past with them. There was a rest stop coming up on the right, and it looked almost sanitary. Surely Mark would pull in. There was a gas station with a sign that said "Restrooms Inside"surely Mark would stop.

But he just kept driving. I crossed my legs and stole a glance in his direction. Was the man superhuman? Would he never require the use of a bathroom? For a moment, I thought I detected a slight deeper-than-usual furrow of concentration on his brow, but I couldn't be sure. Was he trying to outlast me? I wouldn't give him the satisfaction.

Ten minutes later, I caught myself eyeing an isolated grove of trees with unnatural longing. I knew I couldn't hold out much longer. "Why don't we stop at the next convenience store?" I suggested lightly, trying a new strategy. "I want to buy a bottle of mineral water."

Mark shot me a quick look. Was that suspicion or relief I saw in his eyes? I couldn't think about it now. Once we stopped, I would give him the slip and sneak into the bathroom. He'd never have to know.

We parked the van, and I struggled to walk normally toward the front door. Once inside, I ducked behind the potato chip aisle and sprinted the last 50 feet to the restroom. When I emerged, I noticed the door marked "MEN" swinging shut behind my husband. He quickly looked both ways, then darted toward the drink coolers. No sparkling mineral water in sight, we paid for our snacks and got back in the van. "So how long did you have to go the bathroom before we finally stopped," I asked, as we pulled back onto the highway.

The growing mischief in Mark's smile told me all I needed to know. "I didn't really have to go," he said. "I was just being efficient - since we were stopped anyway."

Something in my upbringing kept my hands from closing around his throat. I weighed my options, then calmly rolled up the largest map in the glove compartment and began whapping the man of my dreams with it. One arm up to fend off my attack, Mark reminded me that the driving patterns inspired by such antics are frowned upon by those who patrol our nation's interstate highways.

I ceased and desisted, but only after a few more well-aimed shots. By that time we were both laughing so hard any further attempt at retributions was futile. After we regained our composure, we finally succeeded in having that grown-up talk I'd longed for...over sunflower seeds and Cokes, while the country-and-western classic "The Streets of Laredo" played softly in the background.

I realized then, as we cruised the countryside, that I liked our style, even if it meant we'd be the last couple chosen for a Lexus ad. And a few miles down the road, when we passed another truck stop, it was Mark who suggested we pull in for a pit stop.

Psssttt.....
 Hey you...
 Yes, YOU!!!

This year has been particularly difficult for so many. It's time to bring happiness, light and joy!!!

We have some amazing community members that have given the opportunity to do just that. All that YOU have to do is start nominating someone that could benefit from a good 'ole pick-me-up!!!!

Beginning on the 1st of the Sept, Oct, Nov & Dec - drop off your nomination by the 20th of each month (2 drop locations: Fae Fire 449 NW 3rd St, Ste A, Prineville OR Your Round-Up 1590 SE Mountain View Dr, Prineville) and we'll do the rest. Our team will choose a recipient and they will receive a sweet gift that has been specifically created by Chelle at Fae Fire.

Nomination must include: name, address, phone & email for nominee and person submitting, along with a brief explanation of "why" this person is being nominated!

Biz Up

New in business? Significant business change? Contact Your Round-Up for more info on this FREE 1-week shout-out.

Barrett Amacker, and Fletcher Damuth are excited to announce their business, Crooked River Land and Tree LLC.

Barret & Fletcher grew up in Lakeview Oregon, spending a majority of their time outdoors. They've both had a chainsaw in their hands since they could basically walk.

Fletcher went to college in Montana for business while Barrett jumped straight into the workforce out of high school. Both fought wildfire for a combined 7 years, where they specifically ran a chainsaw most of the time on the fire line. This last spring they came up with the idea to combine their knowledge, and start their own business.

They pay great attention to detail, and treat every project like its their own! They are excited to offer their services to Prineville and surrounding areas!
