SENSELESS ♥ TRAGEDY...

SILVER RAIL ELEMENTARY

OUR LOVE AND PRAYERS TO THOSE AFFECTED BY THE HORRIFIC SCHOOL SHOOTING IN BEND ON OCT 15. WORDS ARE SMALL.....BUT OUR HEARTS ARE BIG.

Kindness is a small, simple act..... Always remember that everyone has battles they are fighting and sometimes ONE simple act makes every amount of difference for someone. A kind word, a smile, holding the door open, paying for the coffee behind you, leaving a larger tip than usual.....what ever it is, do it with purpose. You never know when that one simple thing will be the saving grace for someone. And...as always....don't judge anyone who needs to mask up, sanitize or distance themselves in order to do their best for sickness prevention and/or spreading. Again, none of us know what someone else is going through!

Some Mountains Are Better Left Alone

Have you ever driven a long stretch of highway where the road seems to run straight for miles, only to suddenly curve around a mountain before straightening out again?

I've encountered that many times in my travels. It always makes me wonder what went into the decision. Why didn't the road builders simply cut through the mountain? In some places, they do exactly that. Elsewhere, they build tunnels. And sometimes, they decide the better answer is to go around.

I suspect there's a lesson in those decisions. Most of us try to keep our life's pathways reasonably straight. We make plans, establish goals and choose a direction. The occasional bump doesn't bother us much. We adjust and keep moving. Then, without warning, there's a mountain in the road. It might be a personal setback, a business problem or something entirely beyond our control. Suddenly, the pathway we carefully planned isn't taking us where we expected.

Our first instinct may be to tackle the obstacle head-on. Sometimes that's necessary. Other times, we spend enormous energy trying to move something that isn't going anywhere. We might find a compromise, tunnel through the difficulty or simply wait for conditions to change. But there's another option worth considering: take a different route. Going around a mountain doesn't mean we've surrendered our destination. It means we've recognized that reaching it matters more than insisting on a straight road.

Perhaps those highway planners understood something we occasionally forget.
Some mountains just aren't worth the trouble.

Marital Bliss

Madeline patted Roland's paunch before clearing the table of breakfast dishes. "Time to take that off," she said. "Remember how handsome and slim you were when we married?"

Roland stacked the dishwasher and grumbled something he'd heard from his doctor, something about how difficult it is for an older man to trim his belly.

"Donuts twice a week do not help," Madeline barked, and then she regretted her harsh tone. "Honey, I'm just being supportive. I love you and want you to live to a ripe old age, that's all. Don't you want us to go into the golden years together?"

Roland grunted and walked out of the room. Madeline finished in the kitchen, and then she walked into the den to read the morning newspaper. The phone rang. She picked up the receiver but before she could say hello, she heard Roland speaking to his friend Lee on the extension.

"The bird has left the nest," said Lee.

Madeline recognized the code phrase for "My wife's out. I'm free to go."

"Not yet, but any minute now," said Roland. "She has a hair appointment at ten. I'll meet you at the donut shop at ten twenty. Gotta be home, though, by eleven thirty sharp."

Madeline waited for Roland to hang up the phone in the bedroom, then she hung up the one in the den. She had neglected to tell Roland that she had postponed her hair appointment until the next day.

"Going out for a walk," Madeline called to Roland. "I'll be back in twenty minutes, and then I have an appointment." It wasn't a lie. She did have an appointment, just not for hair!

"Okay, I remember," shouted Roland.

Madeline jogged out the side door and slipped into the garage. She pulled out her cell phone and called Lee's wife, Rose.

"This bird has left the next," she said, giggling. "Are you ready?"

"I'm flapping my wings," Rose quipped, stifling a laugh. "They're going to faint when they see us. Meet you at the donut shop in ten minutes, the booth in the back, right side, where the guys can't see us."

At ten twenty on the nose, Roland and Lee walked in, talking and laughing. Their wives waited until the men were settled with their coffee and chocolate-frosted donuts. Then the "birds" slid out of their booth, coffee cups in hand, and sauntered up to their husbands.

"Fancy meeting you here," Madeline cooed.

"Imagine bumping into the two of you," echoed Rose. "Just having a little fun while the birds are out of the nest, eh?"

Roland nearly choked on the hot coffee, and Lee's mouth flew open, chocolate frosting dribbling down his chin.

"Wanna buy a girl a refill?" Madeline asked, as she sidled up to her husband.

"And what about me, big boy?" Rose said, batting her lashes, as she slid into the booth next to her husband, and plunked down her cup.

They all burst out laughing, clinked coffee cups and ordered another round of donuts!

One year a trick-or-treater came to my door dressed as Rocky, in boxing gloves and robe. Shortly after I gave him some goodies, he returned. "Aren't you the same Rocky who was just here?" I asked. "Yes," he replied, "but now I'm the sequel!"

Special Kudos to Capri, for giving us this awesome paper every week for free in Prineville & Madras (she's so humble, I'm sure she didn't want to print this, but I begged her)! I knew you would all agree, too! It's the best place to advertise!

We learn about so many things going on in the community, have a chance to buy & sell things, learn about and support local businesses when we see their ads, celebrate people, and enjoy the puzzles, jokes and funny stories she puts in her great paper. And she includes non-profit happenings for free, and there are a lot of those!

Thank you SO much Capri! We really appreciate all the hard work, dedication, and challenges you face each week, getting all the info to fit in just the right place! And then delivering them to dozens of businesses! YOU ARE LOVED! Keep up the great work.

From everyone who gets to read Your Round Up & Madras Go-'Round & share about their business or events or items for sale, in your incredible & very valuable paper! Thank you from the bottom of our hearts!

Note from Capri.....I did NOT want to publish the Kudos....she is right about that.....I do this for the community not for accolades! However, it is a times like this that I am reminded of exactly WHY I pour my heart and soul into the publications that I produce. It is for the communities that I love so very much. Being able to provide a space for affordable advertising.....to promote and encourage every business the ability to get their business seen and to grow! Being able to provide a space for community events/happenings....so that every member of the community gets the chance to experience what happens here! While the publications are not perfect and I am (gasp) human....errors are made, typos happen and sometimes things somehow get left out. None is intentional! These publications are an absolute work from my heart! I appreciate you all so much!!!! ~ Capri ♥

My father is a successful cardiologist, but his busy practice and long hours left my mother with a lot of spare time. So she decided to become a substitute teacher.

At the end of her first month on the job, she bought my father a new watch. "Honey, I just spent my pay for the whole month on a gift for you," she said. "It's now your turn to do the same!"
