HERE'S WISHIN'

THAT THIS WEEK SURPRISES YOU IN THE BEST POSSIBLE WAY!
MAYBE IT'S A LUCKY MOMENT, A KIND WORD OR JUST REALLY GOOD FOOD

'Tis that time of year again..... Please be mindful when out and about. If you are sick or not feeling well, please use common sense in precaution to prevent sharing with everyone else. A simple sickness for some, isn't always that way for others. Sneeze and/or cough into the crook of your arm, that's simple enough for us all to do! And please, for all that is holy, be KIND if someone has a mask on - you do not know the scope of their reasoning. It really just takes simple acts of kindness for us to each live in this world together..... differences of opinions and/or beliefs make life much more interesting so don't get ugly when someone feels different than you!

Jan 28 - Starting Your Genealogy Journey: Tools, Tips & Community Resources

Crook County Library, Broughton Room, 1-3 pm. Free, open to all. Discover easy ways to begin your research, learn how to organize family stories and records and get hands-on advice from members of the Bend Genealogical Society. Jan 28 - Nature Night: Central Oregon's Sierra Nevada Red Fox

Livestream, 7-8:30 pm. The Sierra Nevada red fox may be one of the rarest mammals in North America. The elusive, mountain-loving carnivore has a knack for showing up only when it feels like it, which is not often. Join Deschutes Land and Trust and Jamie Bowels, Regional Habitat Biologist with the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife and unofficial "fox whisperer", for a lively dive into what we're learning about these high-elevation Houdinis. Jamie will share new finding on where the foxes roam, what habitats they actually prefer vs the ones they let us find, and why studying them often involves snow, patience and the occasional sens of humor. Attendees will leave with a clearer picture of the fox's status in the Central Cascades, a few behind-the-scenes field stories and a renewed appreciation for one of Oregon's most charming and stealthy animals.

Your Round-Up is open ALL Holidays except for Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's and always closed 2 weeks at the end of every year.

I'd LOVE to be out galavanting in a hippy van (but I'll settle for my amazingly cool Jeep)..... but I choose to keep a consistent and easy to remember schedule for YOU (see box to left).

Deadline is EVERY Friday, 2 pm - NO EXCEPTIONS.

If something comes up and I need to be closed, I always try to give adequate notice.....sometimes emergencies, last-minute fishing trips with the hubs (not often) and/or the monthly adventure trips we take do happen quickly.

Dropbox, email, voicemail & website are ALWAYS available!
Thank you - Capri

Youth Group at Calvary Chapel, I am very proud of you! 12 teens were at the Dawg House when we were eating there on Sunday. They were actually talking to each other and not all on their phones (I can't say that about a lot of adults or teens in restaurants!). Think about~"Love the one you're with"!!!

Russell introduced himself and all the teens seemed so nice & polite! They were not loud, and never once in 1/2 + hour did I hear a cuss word come out of their mouths (how refreshing to not hear swearing--it's all too common now with teens and adults!). If only more people would realize that and watch what they say! People are listening and watching us!

Awesome job youth group leaders and parents for teaching & raising your kids with such great morals and values. There are so many churches, private schools, & parents who are doing this! It gives us hope for this next generation!

THANK YOU!

Keep your faith!

See 1 Timothy 4:12.

During Fred's surgical residency he was called out of a sound sleep to the emergency room. He showed up, unshaven and unkempt, and encountered a medical resident and his student, both nearly attired. The resident told his student, "You can always tell the surgeons by their absolute disregard for appearance."

Two nights later, Fred was at a banquet when he was called to the emergency room to suture a laceration. He was stitching away - this time wearing a tuxedo - when he saw the same medical resident and his student.

The medical resident said to his student, "Man, he sure is sensitive to criticism, isn't he?"

It Takes Brains AND Muscle

What in the world am I talking about?! Housework, that's what!!

Did you know that tackling "high intensity" tasks such as cleaning windows helps improve physical health and mental faculties?!?

The mental aspect doesn't surprise me. It's real. While attempting to change my duvet cover - I always end up entirely submerged in the thing, my hands holding its corners inside the cover, wondering what to do next. I am firm in believing that the widespread belief in ghosts stems from people becoming permanently entangled in their duvet covers.

Then there's loading the dishwasher. There's a hundred possible solutions to the problem of fitting everything in, only one of which is judged by the other household member (my wife)! Is there really a right way and a wrong way??

Oh, the bathroom.....more disputes await. My belief is that every time you shower, the shower has a shower and is self-cleaning. My wife believes that the shower must be cleaned separately. I achieve this task by stripping down naked and attacking it on my knees with a scrub brush, my backside wagging from side to side as I work away the grime. My wife enjoys the sparkling results, but isn't so sure about the flashbacks that happen later. Something about once seen it can't be unseen. I don't know what her problem is.

And as far as window cleaning, it's impossible to achieve a good result. I work hard at it, spraying on the fluid and scrubbing the glass with a crumpled sheet of newsprint. It always looks spotless until the sun hits the windows the next morning. I then wash them again. This only manages to move the swirls from one spot to another. Maybe I need a different section of the newspaper?

The next housework/workout is sweeping. This creates such a huge pile of dog hair that I wonder if there's anything left on the dog. Maybe I need to make wigs so that I'm getting paid to clean up this horrific mess!

Next, Tupperware drawer. This involves a lot of crouching, standing and then crouching again. The brain stimuli comes from deciding if keeping the lid with no container or the container with no lid is advisable. BLEH!

And my most favorite workout ever.....refusing to have the lawn mower serviced. This allows me to work up quite the sweat while yanking on the pull cord trying to get this darned thing to start.

And that, my friends, is how you get fitter by the minute both in mind and in body!!!

Did You Know

A humid closet, attic, basement, home can wreak havoc on your health. Get rid of that humidity with simple homemade dehumidifiers - especially if you can't get to the store to buy one or they are hard to find or sold out.

- Put some charcoal briquettes in a coffee can, punch a few holes in the lid and place in humid areas. Replace the charcoal every few months.
- Fill an empty coffee can with salt and leave it in a corner where it will be undisturbed. Replace the salt at monthly intervals or as needed.

Avoid negative people, places, things and habits!

The Milkman

From Art Linkletter's "Kids Say the Darndest Things!"

I queried a cute little redhead one day: "Who do you look like in your family?"

"Like my mother," she giggled. "We have the same color eyes, ears and hair. And we both have a mole in the same place but I promised I wouldn't say where."

Another redhead tossed her head of flaming red curls at my question about "looks" and tartly said: "I don't look like anyone in the family."

"Then, where did you get your red hair?"

"My mother says 'The Milkman'," she exploded with laughter. And so did everyone else. Except maybe Dear Old Dad!

Speaking of milkmen, there was a precocious boy visiting us one day who claimed his mother called him "Farmer John." When I asked him further about his nickname he said:

"I like farms, and my specialty is raising calves and milking cows."

"I'll be you don't even know where milk comes from," I teased.

"I sure do. I'm a professional milking kid."

"All right." I was hooked and I knew it. "How do you do it?"

"You grab those faucets hanging down there, fasten the machine on and let 'er rip!"

Just for Fun

On business in Mexico, three men get drunk and wake up in jail to learn they will be executed, though none of them can recall what they did to deserve it.

The first man put in the electric chair is asked for his last words. "I'm from the Toronto School of Theology, and believe in the power of God to intervene on behalf of the innocent." The switch is thrown, but nothing happens. The jailers figure God wants him alive so they let him go.

The second man is strapped in and asked for his last words. "I'm from UBC's Faculty of Law, and believe in the power of justice to intervene on behalf of the innocent." The switch is thrown; again, nothing. The jailers think the law is on the man's side, so they let him go.

The last man says, "Well, I'm an electrical engineer from McGill, and you're not electrocuting anybody if you don't connect those two loose

wires down there."

Nothing is foolproof....
but, unlike most on-line

forums, Your Round-Up makes every effort to ensure that our advertisers safest experience possible.

Every advertisement that is published has some type of correspondence between Capri & the person placing in hope of minimizing the scammers that lurk behind computer screens.

A long-married couple is dining out at a fine restaurant when the husband orders a Scotch.

"I've never had Scotch," the wife tells the waiter. "Bring me one too." The waiter returns with two Scotches. The wife takes a swallow and gags. "This is awful! How can you drink this?"

Between sips, her husband says, "And here you thought I was out enjoying myself every night!"

My cooking has always been the target of family jokes. One evening, as I prepared dinner a bit too quickly, the kitchen filled with smoke and the smoke detector went off. Although both of my children had received fire-safety training at school, they did not respond to the alarm. Annoyed, I stormed through the house in search of them. I found them in the bathroom washing their hands.

Over the loud buzzing of the smoke alarm, I asked them to identify the sound.

"It's the smoke detector," they replied in unison.

"Do you know what that sound means?" I demanded.

"Sure," the oldest replied. "Dinner's ready!"

Be Mindful, Be Kind, Be Smart

This is a touchy subject for some...however, I've had several readers reach out with the request to please publish this.....please be kind. ~ Capri

Suggestions & reminders to help keep yourself & others as healthy & safe as possible during this cold/flu/virus season!

Each of us (sick and/or healthy) should be mindful of others no matter the situation and we should not only protect others if we are sick, but also if we want/need to stay healthy. Just be kind and mindful always! Use common sense! There are many elderly/youth and immune compromised that a "simple" virus could mean extended hospital stays, extended absence from work or daily living, and even possible death.

- Stay home if you are sick (stay out of school, daycare, work, church, shopping, gym, etc) - at least 24 hours after your fever is gone (without the aide of fever-reducing medicine) or vomiting has stopped.
- Use sanitizing wipes on shopping carts/baskets, at home, office, car, toys, etc
- Use hand sanitizer (at least 60% alcohol-based), if soap and water is not available (keep in your car, purse, office, etc)
- Cough into your elbow (rather than your hand) - ALWAYS cover your cough
- Wash your hands after blowing your nose or before touching your mouth or eyes
- Keep your distance from others when sick - don't shake hands or hug
- Consider wearing a mask (N-95 preferred) if you have to be out, to help reduce spread (this pertains to the sick and those needing extra protection against getting sick)
- If you aren't getting better - see a doctor.
- Protect yourself by: getting quality sleep, up your Vitamin D, reduce sugar/carb intake, stay hydrated, take immune boosters
